

A mark of a truly healthy church is that the people who gather are growing in their faith.

A mark of a truly healthy disciple is that they are totally committed to the person of Jesus Christ.

Disunity, factions, infighting, grumbling all have the ability to hinder the work of God in a church. It causes the church to focus inward rather than outward

- making disciples.

God has called His under shepherds to - "Preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction." - 2 Timothy 4:2

The early church was dependent on the apostles doctrine and teaching.
