

Wisdom says that the friends we choose can either draw us close to the Lord or pull us away from Him.

A true friend is one who we can be ourselves around, without judgment.

A true friend is a constant source of love.

Do not measure your worth in the amount of friends that you have.

It's better to have one faithful friend than to have many people who are not genuine.

We usually fall down to the level of the fool. Rarely do fools rise up to the level of the righteous.

A good friend will ...

- Avoid gossip - Prov. 17:9
- Pursue righteousness - Prov. 22:11
- Not let sin go unnoticed – Prov. 27:5
- Challenge the heart – Prov. 27:6
- Give genuine advice – Prov. 27:9
